

Jowi Taylor Bio

Jowi Taylor is a multiple award winning writer and broadcaster best known for his long-running CBC Radio program “Global-Village”, the Peabody Award winning radio series “The Wire: The Impact of Electricity on Music” and its celebrated companion series: “The Nerve: Music and the Human Experience”.

His independent “Six String Nation” multi-media project – centered around a guitar built literally from pieces of Canadian heritage – combines Jowi’s various fascinations, including music, media, community-building and the intersection of Canada’s history and multicultural identity.

His book about the project “Six String Nation: 64 Pieces, 6 Strings, 1 Canada, 1 Guitar” is available from Douglas & McIntyre Publishers.

Quote:

“It’s more than just a guitar. It’s a history book that you can play music on.”

– Andy Stochansky

For more information or to contact Jowi for interviews, he can be reached by email at jowi@sixstringnation.com or by telephone at 416.536.7074